Building Level Services

- These include various support services that are available without needing to make a referral to CSE.
 - A student doesn't not need to be classified as having a disability to access these services and they can be very helpful in supporting students with weaknesses.
 - They include services such as AIS reading and math, speech improvement services, building level counseling and teacher support for students with behavioral challenges.
 - We look at a child's Response to Intervention, after receiving these services, as one factor when considering eligibility for CSE services.

BEHAVIORAL SUPPORT PROGRAM

6:1:2 classes at Saddle Rock and JFK

Designed for students with generally average to above average cognitive/academic skills but also have significant behavioral challenges that require a high level of support. Students have highly structured behavior plans and are mainstreamed into typical class settings with support.

Middle Schools

Both Middle Schools have Integrated Co-teaching (Team Taught) classes, Resource Room, Consultant Teacher, Special Classes (12:1:1) & Related Services for students who are working towards a Regents Diploma.

Special Middle School Programs

- North Middle also has Intensive Needs classes with ratios of 8:1:2 and 6:1:2. Most of the students in these classes are Alternately Assessed.
 - South Middle also has the EXCEL program for grades 7-8, which is a structured small class program for Regents bound students. Students receive alternate day counseling and a daily reinforcement system to support students who need assistance with behavior or emotional regulation.

Alternate High School Settings

General and special education students can both attend SEAL, located at Clover Drive, or the Village School. For students with disabilities, Resource Room and Counseling are available in both locations and each has a full time psychologist.

Alternate High School Settings

Village School – alternative high school where class sizes are typically fewer than 12 students with a total enrollment of about 50 students.

SEAL – alternative program with classes that are usually fewer than 5 students. Focus is on credit recovery for students who need more structure and support than the traditional high school settings can provide. The total enrollment is about 22 students.
